NMHC President Sharon Wilson writes:

“Through NMHC’s commitment to ensuring that our nation’s residents have access to safe and affordable housing, we work to bring together stakeholders across the housing industry to address the challenges facing our communities. This week, we are pleased to announce the release of two important white papers that highlight the latest trends and insights on critical housing issues.”

The first white paper, titled “Housing Affordability: A Community Approach,” explores the various factors that contribute to housing affordability, including renter income, housing costs, and access to affordable housing options. The report emphasizes the importance of collaboration between housing providers and policymakers to address the issue of housing affordability.

The second white paper, titled “Future of the Rental Market,” examines the evolving trends in the rental market, including the impact of remote work and the rise of multifamily housing. The report also highlights the role of technology in shaping the future of the rental market.

In addition to these white papers, NMHC has launched a new member benefit program, which includes access to exclusive resources, events, and networking opportunities. Members can log in to access these resources and stay up-to-date on the latest news and trends in the housing industry.

NMHC CEO & President Jay B. Ifill IV adds: “By providing valuable insights and resources, we hope to inspire action and drive progress in the housing industry. These white papers and member benefits are just the beginning of our commitment to supporting our members in creating a more equitable and sustainable future for all.”

Stay tuned for more updates from NMHC as we continue to work towards our shared goal of ensuring safe and affordable housing for all.”
