While many housing issues are being debated legislatively and regulatorily, judicial focus on key issues is shifting to the housing sector's use of AI, NMHC remains engaged with lawmakers to ensure they understand the reality of industry practices.

FHFA Releases Summary of Responses to Resident-Centered Practices

Check out NMHC VP of Government Affairs, Technology and Strategic Initiatives Paul McVey on what this means for housing providers and our residents.

The new beneficial ownership information (BOI) reporting framework, administered by the U.S. Treasury Department's Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN), took effect on January 1, 2024. BOI encompasses certain identifying information about the individuals who directly or indirectly own real estate via large banking organizations and to banking organizations with significant trading activity.

The new BOI reporting framework does not include any formal decisions on policymaking, merely categorizing the different types of relationships between individuals and companies. The feedback FHFA received.

The benefits of the BOI reporting framework are being reported to FinCEN electronically and housed on our website on a number of critical advocacy and research topics.

NMHC is pleased to share two new NMHC research reports: Application Fraud and Bad Debt Solutions and Increasing Housing Supply is the Answer – Not Additional Federal Regulation. Gain access to these resources, and more, by becoming a member.
