With more than 20 years' experience, Acker directs Community Technology Services for LMC, a Lennar Company. He works with development teams and consulting firms on service provider selection and infrastructure requirements for data, video, access control, security, audio visual and other community technology services.

Prior to joining LMC, Acker worked as director of Resident Technology Services for RealPage, Inc., responsible for negotiating all service provider agreements for RealPage clients. He spent 10 years with Forest City Enterprises, Inc., overseeing Forest City initiatives to implement building infrastructure for service provider and in-house requirements, negotiating service provider agreements, and adding input for wireless coverage, building security, building access control and digital signage.
