

Alyson Bode is a Senior Vice President and Head of Research at Kettler. Ms. Bode joined Kettler in 2017 and advises leaders in development, acquisitions, asset management and operations across Kettler's vertically integrated platform by providing actionable market intelligence and reporting. Alyson also leads Kettler's data strategy supporting investment and executive decision making and analysis of the Kettler markets, customers and portfolio.

In addition to her role as Senior Vice President at Kettler Ms. Bode also holds an adjunct faculty position at George Mason University teaching Market Analysis in the Costello College of Business for students obtaining a master's degree in real estate development.

Prior to joining Kettler, Ms. Bode was a Director of Market Research at AvalonBay Communities. Alyson was responsible for research across AvalonBay's national portfolio of communities including investment committee materials, portfolio review and models used in the company's underwriting and was tasked to head up specific initiatives for portfolio shaping and expansion strategy.

Ms. Bode is active in industry groups and holds multiple leadership positions. She is currently serving as Vice Chair of the Research Committee for the National Multifamily Housing Council (NMHC) and Membership Director for the Carolinas Chapter of the Counselors of Real Estate (CRE). She is also very involved in the Urban Land Institute (ULI) and sits on a Multifamily Product Council.

Ms. Bode received her Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree from The George Washington University with a focus in Real Estate. She received her bachelor's degree in Economics, with a minor in Business Administration from the University of Colorado. Ms. Bode is also recognized as a Counselor of Real Estate (CRE®), a global organization of real estate advisors.