Arben Skivjani serves as a Deputy Chief Economist and Head of Forecasting for RealPage, Inc. where he oversees forecasting for a range of metrics and markets within the industry, including detailed quarterly multifamily projections and comprehensive annual student housing forecasts. Arben's responsibilities also include conducting economic impact studies and analyzing macroeconomic trends that affect the multifamily industry.

In addition to his forecasting role, Arben hosts "RealPage Economy Express," a biweekly video series where he breaks down the latest economic trends and discusses their implications for the multifamily and student housing sectors.

Prior to joining RealPage, Arben worked for several government and private sector entities, including the District of Columbia Department of Employment Services and the Center for Business and Economic Development at the University of Alabama. He has served as president of the Dallas/Fort Worth Association for Business Economics and is an active member of the National Association for Business Economics. Arben earned his master's degree in economics from The University of Alabama.